

Removing Barriers: The 5-Point Scale

The 5 Point Scale was developed by Kari Dunn Buron and is a visual system that can help to organise a persons thinking when working through difficult situations which require social understanding. For young people with autism this can include misunderstanding and inability to understand another's intentions; how to manipulate social situations; repairing social interactions. Such difficulties create social anxiety.

The workshop will first look at anxiety and its impact on individuals; the second part will introduce the 5 Point scale in more detail and how to implement it.

This training is suitable for practitioners supporting children & young people with ASC of any age, SENCos, teachers, Teaching Assistants.

Date: 14th May 2020

Time: 1:15pm – 3.30pm,
lunch provided from 12.30pm

Venue: Linwood
Professional Development
Centre, 129 Alma Road.
BH9 1AG

Cost: £75—BOOST funding available

Led by: Alison Cleobury

5
4
3
2
1

www.LinwoodTSA.org.uk

Please book via

www.bcpworkforcedevelopment.co.uk