

PEIC-D Workshop

Led by

Jo Bryson

Dorset Paediatric Speech and Language Therapy Service

The PEIC-D approach revisits early interaction skills such as imitation, turn-taking and interaction. These skills are often poorly developed in children with severe and/or complex learning difficulties, including autistic spectrum disorders.

By working through a series of steps, using game formats, the child learns to watch others' play, join in, and then take part in turn taking sequences. Later stages include learning to initiate games, and negotiating the rules.

This one-day course provides background to the PEIC-D approach, detailed description of each stage, as well as workshop activities to practice of the techniques, and consider how to implement within educational settings.
