Writing Skills workshop for reluctant writers

Primary version

This interactive and hands-on workshop focusses on strategies to support reluctant writers to get their ideas down on paper through fiction and non-fiction . The strategies will reduce cognitive overload and provide practical solutions to address the three key reasons why writing can be so difficult for some learners. Group based multi-sensory activities, ideal for whole class and small group settings will be modelled, together with suggestions for how to teach information processing through mind maps and flow charts.
