

The 5-Point Scale

Led by Alison Cleobury, Teacher
Springwood Campus, Linwood School

The 5 Point Scale was developed by Kari Dunn Buron and is a visual system that can help to organise a persons thinking when working through difficult situations which require social understanding. For young people with autism this can include misunderstanding and inability to understand another's intentions; how to manipulate social situations; repairing social interactions. Such difficulties create social anxiety.

The workshop will first look at anxiety and its impact on individuals; the second part will introduce the 5 Point scale in more detail and how to implement it.
