

Classroom Adaptations

Led by Amy Moorse and Verity Hart, Occupational Therapists

The course will cover how a classroom environment may feel for children with a wide range of sensory processing difficulties and some of the subtle changes you can make within your classroom to support children with this. We will offer practical tips that can be easily implemented within school. The course will also look at simple and practical adaptations you can make to everyday school tasks that can make a big difference.
